CLOVIS HIGH SCHOOL AFJROTC ATTENDS MOCK BASIC MILITARY TRAINING

On October 19, Clovis High School Air Force Junior ROTC (AFJROTC) cadets attended a Mock Basic Military Training (BMT) at Cannon Air Force Base (CAFB) to experience what military members endure during basic training.

The full-day event included a tour of various squadrons where cadets had an opportunity to talk with CAFB Airmen and ask questions about jobs they may be interested in pursuing such as Fire Protection, Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD), and aircraft maintenance as well as receive instruction and indoctrination given by former United States Air Force (USAF) Military Training Instructors (MTI's). One more stop on the tour was the CV-22 Osprey hangar.

Experiences such as these are essential to prepare a cadet for a future career in the military, gain an inside perspective about military life, and learn about the mission of the USAF.

A special thanks to the Airmen of the 27th Special Operations Wing for the invaluable training.
